

Congratulations to All Award Winners!

General Abstract Prizes

Students

1st prize: Marie Kempf Frydendahl, Department of Occupational Medicine, Aarhus University Hospital, Denmark & Theresa Møller Kynde, Department of Public Health, Aarhus University Hospital, Denmark
The exposure response relation between occupational exposure to wood dust and sinonasal cancer
Abstract RF-285, Rapid-Fire Session RFC2 (Cancer), Wednesday October 27

2nd prize: Jennifer Ritonja, Queen's University, Canada
Exploring the impact of night shift work and melatonin on methylation in circadian genes
Abstract O-225, Concurrent Oral Session D5.2 (Shift Work), Wednesday October 27

3rd prize: Xiaoke Zeng, University of Toronto, Canada
Aluminum Dust Exposure and Risk of Neurodegenerative Diseases in a Cohort of Male Miners in Ontario, Canada
Abstract O-57, Concurrent Oral Session A5.4 (Specific Occupations), Monday October 25

Early-Career Researchers

1st prize: Aaron Tustin, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), United States
Heat-related acute kidney injury in indoor and outdoor workers in the U.S.
Abstract O-127, Concurrent Oral Session F5.1 (Heat & Climate Change), Thursday October 28

2nd prize: Barbara Harding, ISGlobal- Barcelona Institute for Global Health, Spain
Altered levels of immune markers among male rotating night shift workers in Spain – the HORMONIT study
Abstract O-198, Concurrent Oral Session B5.1 (Biomarkers), Tuesday October 26

3rd prize: Lilah Rinsky Halivni, Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health, United States and Braun School of Public Health, Hadassah-Hebrew University, Israel
The complex association of perceived workplace safety, work environment, and national factors with the mental health of aging workers in Europe during the COVID-19 pandemic
Abstract O-439, Concurrent Oral Session D2.3 (Aging Workforce), Wednesday October 27

Gender-based Research Abstract Prizes

Katrina Blindow, Karolinska Institutet, Sweden
Gender-based violence and harassment and the incident purchase of psychotropic medication. A prospective cohort study on the Swedish working population
Abstract O-486, Concurrent Oral Session C1.2 (Sex & Gender), Tuesday October 26

Emma Quinn, University of British Columbia, Canada
Men and women at work in Canada, 1991-2016
Abstract O-124, Concurrent Oral Session C1.5 (Sex & Gender), Tuesday October 26

Fernando Feijó, Federal University of Bahia, Brazil
The role of gender in the association between sexual harassment at work and suicidal ideation: a study with civil servants from a middle-income country
Abstract O-378, Concurrent Oral Session C1.4 (Sex & Gender), Tuesday October 26

